

Multiple Orbits

National Security Space platforms use different orbits for different missions. As commercial satellites have moved from geostationary to medium- and low-Earth orbit, the variety of commercial buses available to suit those missions continues to increase.

